

VOTE

Went Principally to Mr. Roosevelt

REPUBLICANS CARRY ALL THE DOUBTFUL STATES

In National Election Held on Tuesday.

EVEN REPUBLICANS SURPRISED

Analysis of the Vote Cast—Roosevelt Gets 325 Votes in the Electoral College.

Roosevelt 325
Parker 151

New York, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's victory did not diminish over night. On the contrary it has grown bigger. Later returns from everywhere show the victory of the Republican party to be one of the most astonishing in American political history.

The candidacy of Watson and Debs contributed to the crushing defeat of the Democracy. Roosevelt will have 325 votes in the electoral college and Parker 151. Roosevelt has every northern state and apparently has captured Maryland, which it was thought might have gone Democratic by a small margin. Parker has secured the lowest electoral vote of any Democratic candidate since Greeley's time. Every doubtful state fell into line in the Republican column, even to surprise of the Republicans themselves. Anticipation in the election is the fact that several northern states, notably Massachusetts and Minnesota, elected Democratic governors in the face of an astonishing plurality for Roosevelt. The returns now indicate the following results.

Minnesota gave Roosevelt 100,000, but seems to have elected Johnson, Democrat, governor, by 10,000 plurality. Roosevelt probably has 90,000 plurality in Massachusetts, but Wm. L. Douglass, Democrat, the well known shoe manufacturer, is elected governor by 40,000. The result in Colorado is in a state of chaos, both sides claiming a victory, but there is every indication of Republican success. The ticket is undoubtedly elected by 8,000 with Peabody running 2,000 behind. The Republicans of Indiana besides sweeping the state and national tickets by overwhelming majorities, gained two new members of Congress and increased the working majority in the legislature. The state is easily Republican by 50,000.

Some Republicans are today claiming the state for Roosevelt but say Folk wins.

Returns received from various counties of Missouri today indicate that Folk, Democrat, is elected governor by about 30,000 majority and the rest of the Democratic ticket by a reduced majority. Roosevelt carried St. Louis, the vote being 57,966 to 55,070 for Parker.

Returns from West Virginia are slow coming in, and will probably be some time before the result for governor will be definitely settled. The indications are that if Dawson, Republican, is elected for governor his majority will be small, as compared with the presidential ticket. Roosevelt will carry the state by not less than 8,000.

The Republican representation in Congress will be the largest in years. The estimates indicate a majority of between 60 and 75.

In New York Higgins, Republican governor is elected by 75,000 to 80,000 over Herrick, Democrat. Roosevelt's plurality in the state is about 175,000, or 31,000 more than McKinley's huge vote of four years ago.

Republican State Chairman Dick says that Ohio Republicans carry all the Ohio congressional districts in the state, and that Roosevelt carries the state by 200,000.

Roosevelt's plurality in Iowa is approximately 140,000.

Roosevelt carries Wisconsin by 95,000. LaFollette is elected governor by 45,000.

Roosevelt carries the state ticket in Utah, his plurality being 9,000. The state is 4,900.

Delaware is 5,000 Republican, Maryland is close, but will probably go to Roosevelt. Virginia goes below 25,000 for Parker. The Republicans get Idaho by 10,000.

MR. BRYAN INTERVIEWED.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—W. J. Bryan today declined to comment on yesterday's election. He denied the report that he will meet Hearst and Watson in New York for the purpose of taking steps toward the organization of a new party.

IN WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—Returns today indicate that Roosevelt has carried the state by 65,000; LaFollette, governor, 38,000.

LaFollette absolutely controls the Wisconsin legislature according to the latest returns today.

Complete returns of Milwaukee give Roosevelt 27,025, Debs 17,033, Parker 16,278.

MISSOURI

Claimed by the Republicans Who Conceded the Election of Governor Folk.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—"Missouri is Republican on the national ticket by 10,000 plurality," was the message delivered to Congressman Tawney, head of the speaker's bureau at the Republican national headquarters this morning by State Chairman Niederlinghaus of St. Louis, who called up Tawney on the long distance phone to tell him the news. The state chairman quite positively claims Roosevelt had captured the rock ribbed Democratic state, but conceded that Folk, Democrat, for governor, was safely elected.

THE GENERAL RESULT.

New York, Nov. 9.—Tuesday's election was astounding even to the most sanguine of the Republican managers. Confident as they were of success, they were not prepared for the astonishing figures which followed the closing of the polls, bringing into the Republican column not only all of those states they had claimed as safe for their candidates, but every northern state classed as doubtful. Democratic successes are confined to the solid south, in which Kentucky is included, and Mr. Parker has not carried a single state which did not give its vote to Mr. Bryan four years ago. Unofficial returns indicate that he has lost some of those which the Nebraska candidate held for his party. Official figures from some of the northwestern states may slightly change the totals, but, based on the returns available at this hour, the electoral vote stands as follows:

As a dramatic climax to the sensational majorities given him, came President Roosevelt's formal announcement that he would not be a candidate for re-election, lending the only exciting aspect to an election night otherwise so one-sided that it was impossible for even the victors to attain that degree of enthusiasm that usually marks the occasion. Late came an announcement from Levin G. Falliser, manager of the campaign for Thomas E. Watson, candidate of the People's party, that as a result of the overwhelming Democratic defeat steps would be taken to form a new party. To this end, according to the announcement given out, Mr. Bryan.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT. (From a new photograph.)

Mr. Watson and Randolph Hearst would hold a conference in New York in about a week's time.

Beginning with the state of New York, which gives a Republican plurality of approximately 185,000, the tale runs practically throughout the country. Kentucky alone showing Democratic gains. Indiana is credited with at least 40,000 plurality, Iowa 125,000, and Pennsylvania heads the list as the banner Republican state with the magnificent Republican plurality of 325,000. Even in the southern states the vote has been light, Georgia's Democratic majority being only between 30,000 and 40,000. Texas will probably not exceed 100,000. Nevada, which was carried by Mr. Bryan four years ago, is Republican, and the indications are that Montana, Idaho and Colorado, also Democratic in 1900, have gone back into the Republican column. Delaware is estimated at about 5,000 Republican; Massachusetts about 90,000, and Connecticut, in which the more sanguine of the Democratic leaders claimed to have had hopes, is about 25,000 for Roosevelt.

While on the national ticket the Democrats have suffered a crushing defeat, they have retrieved themselves on some state tickets. They have reversed the national vote by electing governors in Massachusetts, Minnesota, and probably in Colorado.

NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 9.—Theodore Roosevelt's plurality in this, his native state, is second only to McKinley's in 1896. It exceeds McKinley's in 1900 by about 41,500. The late returns show that there were cast for him in New York state about 185,000 votes more than for Parker. Not only was his vote heavy in the country districts where the Republican strongholds are, but in Greater New York, traditionally Democratic, he ran much closer to Judge Parker than had been expected even by his own campaign managers. It had been estimated that he would come down to the Bronx with better than 140,000 plurality, but the figures showed that this forecast would be exceeded by approximately 85,000. In this city Parker's supporters had expressed hopes that their candidate would have from 140,000 to 160,000 more than Roosevelt, but in this they were disappointed by more than 100,000 votes. So overwhelming was the Republican vote that the result was known positively early in the evening. The earliest counties to report made it clear that the Parker vote everywhere fell below Bryan's in practically all the upstate districts. In Greater New York Parker's plurality was from 12,000 to 14,000 larger than Bryan's, but in the state, according to his last reports, his total vote fell 16,000 short of Bryan.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—The vote in Kentucky indicates a majority in the state for Parker of from 12,000 to 14,000. The figures of the Democratic and Republican managers show but little variance from this result. Kentucky in 1900 gave Bryan 8,098 plurality. In the Fifth district, composed of Louisville and Jefferson county, the Democratic plurality of 3,696 in 1900 was cut down by fully 2,000 votes. In the Third district also the Democratic majority was reduced. The complete returns from the strongly Republican Eleventh district are not expected for 48 hours, but the reduction of the normal Republican majority there as the result of a rational fight over the Republican congressional nomination will partly offset the Republican gains in the Third and Fifth. The result of the fight leaves the congressional delegation unchanged—10 Democrats and one Republican. The Populists increased their vote slightly, but their gains were only slightly felt by the Democrats.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—Roosevelt received a record-breaking plurality in Minnesota, going far beyond McKin-ley's margin of 77,000 four years ago. The Republican electoral ticket will have a plurality of over 100,000. Parker's vote was much smaller than that received by Bryan four years ago, and Roosevelt was especially strong in counties which of old were Populist strongholds. Despite the tremendous plurality for Roosevelt, the Democrats have elected their candidate for governor, John A. Johnson. He is running well ahead of the vote cast for Lind (Dem.), who was defeated four years ago by 2,000. At Democratic headquarters, Johnson's election was claimed by a plurality of from 20,000 to 22,000.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Indiana has been carried by the Republicans by from 45,000 to 55,000. The legislature will be Republican by nearly 50, probably more. All the nine Republican congressmen are re-elected by increased majorities, and the Republicans claim also the Second and Twelfth districts, now represented by Representatives Myers and Robinson, both Democrats. They are in doubt. The legislature, which will meet in January, will elect two United States senators, one to succeed Vice President-elect Charles W. Fairbanks, Senator Beveridge will be re-elected. The Republicans have almost if not quite doubled the McKinley plurality in the state of 26,467 four years ago.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The indications, based on the returns received, are that the Republican national ticket has carried Illinois by about 150,000. The chairman of the Republican state central committee asserted that Roosevelt would certainly have a plurality of 200,000. The Democrats declared that these figures were greatly exaggerated, but admitted that Roosevelt would have a plurality not far from 100,000. The returns on congressmen are slow, but it looks as if the Republicans have gained at least two in Chicago.

NEW JERSEY.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9.—New Jersey was carried by the Republicans by a bigger majority than even the most sanguine of the Republican predictions claimed. The state gave in the neighborhood of 60,000 for Roosevelt exceeding McKinley's majority four years ago by three thousand more. Despite a local issue which was used against him and which caused him to be cut severely in some parts of this state, Edward S. Stokes, the Republican nominee for governor, defeated his Democratic opponent, Charles C. Black, by more than 20,000. Eight Republicans and two Democrats will constitute the state's congressional delegation, a gain of one for the Republicans.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's vote in Pennsylvania far exceeds the expectation of the Republican managers. There is a heavy falling off in the Democratic vote all over the state. The Republicans have elected 29 of the 32 congressmen, carrying all the doubtful districts. They have also elected 25 of the 26 candidates for the state senate, and about 175 of the 204 members of the house of representatives. This gives them an overwhelming majority in the next legislature and insures the election of P. C. Knox of Pittsburg, the appointee of Governor Pennypacker, to succeed the late M. S. Quay.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Returns from the election in Massachusetts indicate a Republican victory for Roosevelt and Fairbanks electors, but at the same time a defeat of Governor Bates for re-election by William L. Douglas, the Democratic candidate. The Republicans, however, elected the rest of the state ticket, at least 10 of the 14 congressmen, and a large majority of the legislature, which will select two United States senators. The Democrats elected besides their candidate for governor, at least three congressmen. Roosevelt's majority is estimated at 85,000.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 9.—The Republican state committee, basing its claims upon very meagre returns and upon estimates from party leaders in various counties, claim that Roosevelt will carry West Virginia by a plurality, which may reach 40,000, the plurality four years ago being 21,000. The same committee claims that the majority of Dawson (Rep.) for governor, will be half that of Roosevelt.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Scattering returns from California indicate that Roosevelt has carried the state by a larger majority than did McKinley four years ago. Of eight congressmen to be elected, the Republican claim to be assured seven, with the Second district in doubt. In this district Bell (Dem.) is running way ahead of his ticket.

MONTANA.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 9.—Montana is for Roosevelt, the indications indicating a gain by the Republicans of over 10 per cent over four years ago. Governor Toole (Dem.) is re-elected. The Democratic state ticket, with possibly one or two exceptions, appears to have won. Every county heard from has gone for Roosevelt by from 300 to 800 majority.

COLOPADO.

Denver, Nov. 9.—Returns indicate a plurality of over 100,000 for Roosevelt in Colorado. The result was to gressmen and state officers is in doubt. One hundred and ninety precincts out of 204 in Denver county give a majority of 2,320 for the entire Democratic state ticket, with thousands of scratched ballots remaining to be counted.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 9.—There is hardly any doubt but that all 10 Democratic congressmen have been elected. Only the two mountain districts are in doubt, the Eighth and Tenth. These the Republicans do not concede, and it will take a day to know absolutely. The Democratic majority in the state is estimated to be about 50,000.

NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 9.—Nebraska will give Roosevelt a plurality which will reach nearly or quite 40,000. George W. Berger, the fusion candidate for governor, is probably elected by a plurality of from 5,000 to 8,000. The returns on the remainder of the state ticket indicate that the Republicans will elect most of their candidates.

MISSISSIPPI.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 9.—Returns thus far received show that between 60,000 and 75,000 votes were cast, and the opposition to the Democratic party will poll between 10,000 and 11,000. The Democratic majority for Parker and Davis will be in the neighborhood of 50,000. Mississippi returns eight Democratic congressmen.

IOWA.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 9.—Returns are slow in coming in, but the indications are that Roosevelt's plurality will be 125,000, and the entire state ticket will have about the same number. Republicans elect 10 congressmen, with the chance that the Second district, which is in doubt, will go Republican.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 9.—Parker has carried South Carolina by not less than 40,000 plurality. The Democratic state ticket has been elected without opposition. The state legislature is unanimously Democratic. All Democratic congressmen have been elected.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Michigan was the scene of a veritable Republican landslide. Roosevelt and Fairbanks have carried the state by an unprecedented majority, variously estimated at from 100,000 to 150,000. Fred M. Warner and the Republican state ticket are elected; at least 11 of the 12 congressmen from Michigan are Republican, and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9.—The election in Virginia was absolutely without disturbance so far as has been heard. The Democratic majority on the presidential ticket will be about 25,000. Nine Democratic congressmen out of a total of 10 have been chosen. Slem, the Republican incumbent in the Ninth district, apparently is re-elected by a majority of about 1,200.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—The state is conceded to Roosevelt by a large plurality, and LaFollette (Rep.) is believed to have been elected governor over Peck (Dem.) by a safe plurality. So far seven Republicans and one Democrat have been elected to congress, and three districts are to be heard from.

KANSAS.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 9.—The indications are that Roosevelt will carry the state by 30,000 plurality. The state ticket is badly scratched. T. T. Kelly, candidate for state treasurer, is running behind his ticket. All the Republican congressmen are elected.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Haven Register (Ind.) claims the state of Connecticut for Roosevelt by over 20,000, the election of Roberts (Rep.) for governor by nearly as much, and the state ticket in New Haven by from 1,000 to 1,500.

LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, Nov. 9.—The Democrats have carried Louisiana for Parker and Davis by a majority probably 35,000. Seven Democratic congressmen have been elected. The election was peaceful and outside of New Orleans a light vote was cast.

WYOMING.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 9.—Returns indicate that Roosevelt has carried Wyoming by 7,000 majority, and the election of Mondell (Republican) to congress, and Brooks (Republican) for governor, and the remainder of the state ticket is certain.

TEXAS.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 9.—Early returns show that the vote cast will hardly exceed 350,000, of which 250,000 were cast for Parker, 60,000 for Roosevelt, and the balance scattering. All Democratic candidates for congress are elected.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—The state which supported the Democratic presidential nominee, conceded that Roosevelt carried the state by about 100,000. Baltimore city with one exception, giving Parker a plurality of 47,000.

ARKANSAS.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 9.—Returns show a light vote in Arkansas. From these the Democratic plurality is conservatively estimated at 40,000. The Democratic nominees for congress have safe majorities.

CONGRESS

The Republicans Still Retain Their Hold on Both the House and the Senate.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The next congress will be Republican. The present Republican majority in that body is 34 and there need be no surprise if this figure is almost doubled and it is reasonably certain to reach a majority of at least fifty. Probably the most marked of these cases are the Fourth and Fifth districts of California (San Francisco) now represented by Representatives Livernash and Wynn, Democrats, which reports indicate have been gained by the Republicans. In the Twelfth Ohio district Taylor, Republican, defeated Badger, the sitting Democratic member, who was a candidate for re-election. The most surprising of all the reports, however, come from the Fifth and Fifteenth Missouri districts, both strongly Democratic and the former represented by Mr. Cowherd, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. The Republicans claim to have carried both districts. In the light of these reports a Republican majority of 50 in the house is considered a conservative estimate. Returns from the southern states show that they have retained the usual Democratic majorities on congressmen as on other candidates.

It is probable the Republican majority in the senate will show little if any change from the voting strength there.

Leader Murphy Talks.

New York, Nov. 9.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, made the following statement: "Of course I am very much surprised at the result. I do not attempt to account for it. Whatever may have been the cause, it will develop and the party can then deal with it. I sincerely regret the defeat of Judge Parker. He was in all respects a worthy candidate. As much as can be said for Judge Herrick and his associates on the state ticket. They undoubtedly were the choice of the Democracy and their defeat is to be regretted more for the sake of the country and the party than for the candidates themselves."

Dover's Statement.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Secretary Elmer Dover of the Republican national committee says Roosevelt will have 317 electoral votes, which is six more than the pre-election estimate. He said: "Owing to the differences in time and greater distances, in the western states, the returns are meager and incomplete. They indicate, however, that the sentiment which carried the east prevails in the west, and I think we justify our claim that we will carry every doubtful state."

Cuyahoga County.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 9.—Mayor Johnson (Dem.) admits there has been a Republican landslide in Cuyahoga county, and that the Republican presidential ticket will have a plurality of from 10,000 to 12,000. The mayor claims a part of the Democratic county ticket will be elected.

STUDENTS ARE CELEBRATING.

Delaware, Nov. 9.—There are no classes being held at Ohio Wesleyan University today, and they were not dismissed by the faculty either. The students are celebrating the victory of Fairbanks, who is a graduate of the college. The entire student body, both boys and girls, bolted immediately after chapel. Headed by a college bar, they are parading the streets.

JAPS POUNDING AWAY AT PORT ARTHUR

Chefoo, Nov. 9.—The Japanese continue the bombardment of Port Arthur and the end of the long siege seems near. The Russians are unable to repair the damage done the forts owing to the heavy fire.

Chinese Spy Executed.

Shanghai, Nov. 9.—It is reported here that a Chinese official of high rank was executed by the Japanese. He was discovered in the act of spying on the movements of Japanese troops, it is said on the order of Theng Chi, military governor of the province of Szechwan. Several thousand rioters entered Kaifeng, the capital of the province of Honan, 29 miles north of Hankow, and destroyed 10 miles of telegraph wire. The rioters are well armed, and serious trouble is feared.

Female Nihilist Banished.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 9.—Mary Figner, who has been confined in the Schlussburg fortress 20 years, was released and banished to Archangel, northern Russia. The woman was condemned to life imprisonment for participating in nihilist conspiracies. She waved her handkerchief as a signal indicating the approach of Alexander II when he was assassinated here in 1881.

Linevitch at the Front.

Mulden Nov. 9.—Lieutenant General Linevitch recently appointed to the command of the First army, arrived here by special train and was met by General Sakharoff. He was enthusiastically welcomed by all the troops. His escort consisted entirely of men who had been decorated with the St. George's cross. General Linevitch will assume command immediately.

SURPRISES IN THE BIG CITIES.

The State Officers—Ohio Delegation in Congress—The Results of Tuesday's Vote.

Columbus, Nov. 9.—This noon Chairman Dick issued a statement claiming the election of a solid Republican delegation in Congress from Ohio, a Republican gain of four congressmen. He says 79 of the 88 counties have gone Republican, and that the state may go 200,000 Republican.

Secretary of State—LEWIS C. LAYLIN.
Judge Supreme Court—WILLIAM T. SPEAR.
Clerk of Supreme Court—L. E. EMERSON.
Dairy and Food Commissioner—HORACE ANKENY.
Member Board of Public Works—RICHARD B. CRAWFORD.
Electors-at-Large—CHARLES P. TAFT, NOAH H. SVAAYNE.

Columbus, Nov. 9.—Latest returns indicate a Republican plurality of more than 125,000 in Ohio. Chairman Dick places Roosevelt's plurality at about the above figure. The Republican pluralities in the large cities of the state were: Cincinnati, 37,000; Cleveland, 15,000; Columbus, 11,000; Toledo, 9,000; Dayton, 4,000, and Republican gains were noted in the rural districts. For the first time the townships in Franklin county outside of Columbus gave a Republican plurality. Franklin county constitutes the Twelfth congressional district, which has been represented by a Democrat.

The Republican committee estimates that the plurality for Roosevelt and Fairbanks will be double the highest plurality ever given McKinley either for governor or president. It is estimated at from 140,000 to 150,000. The Republicans claim a net gain of one congressman—Taylor in the Twelfth district. Chairman Garber of the Democratic state committee has no figures to give out on the state or national tickets in Ohio, but he claims a net gain of one Democratic congressman. The Ohio delegation in congress now stands 17 Republicans and four Democrats.

New York, Nov. 9.—Membership of the next congress appears to be 223 Republicans and 158 Democrats.

Judge Smyser (Rep.) defeats Hurst (Dem.) in the Newark district, and Dawes (Rep.) defeats Schmiedler (Dem.) in the Zanesville-Marietta district for congress. Chairman Garber (Dem.) was re-elected to congress.

Ohio Delegation.

Seventeenth (Newark) district—At. I. Smyser (Rep.) of Wooster.
First district—Nicholas Longworth (Rep.).
Second—Herman P. Goebel (Rep.).
Third—Robert M. Nevins (Rep.).
Fourth—Harvey C. Garber (Dem.).
Fifth—W. W. Campbell (Rep.).
Sixth—Thomas C. Scroggy (Rep.).
Seventh—J. Warren Keifer (Rep.).
Eighth—Ralph D. Cole (Rep.).
Ninth—James H. Southard (Rep.).
Tenth—Henry T. Bannon (Rep.).
Eleventh—Charles H. Grosvenor (Rep.).
Twelfth—Ed L. Taylor (Rep.).
Thirteenth—Grant E. Mousen (Rep.).

Clara Barton

The Story of the Red Cross

THE burning of Rome, the reign of terror in France, the battle of Waterloo—these three ambitious authors have tied with one another to picture forth in one writing. There is a chapter of simple fact, prepared without any attempt at fine writing at all, which is worthy to be classed with any description of the historic events mentioned. It is the chapter concerning the Galveston flood in Clara Barton's book, "A Story of the Red Cross." Here is an extract, coming after the description of scenes in desolated Galveston:

"Some thoughtful reader may pitifully ask what became of these miles of wreckage and the dead on the Galveston seashore.

"At this distant day it may be safe to tell. I recall that at the time much criticism was indulged in.

"All were burned."

One day a little girl asked the president of the American branch of the Red Cross society to tell her what the Red Cross did. The history of the organization had been written time and again, but at the little girl's question Miss Barton suddenly remembered that the large events in which the Red Cross had figured as relief bringer had never been fully described. Acting on the hint the child's question had conveyed to her, she set herself to the task of writing out the full story that facts might not be lacking to inform the present and coming generations of Americans who may wish to know what the Red Cross achieved between 1880 and 1900.

Large occasions for the good works of the American Red Cross came and are set down in the book as follows: The Texas famine and the Mount Vernon cyclone, 1885-1888; yellow fever in Florida, 1887; Johnstown flood, 1889; Russian famine, 1891; sea island relief, 1893; Armenian relief, 1896; Cuba, 1898; Galveston, 1900.

The reader of this story of the Red Cross, however, will look in vain through its pages for any of Clara Barton's personal history, although she was really "it" in the events described, the head and prime mover of all. Her life is in her work, and her work has been her life. One cannot be separated from the other.

Clara Barton was born at Oxford, Mass., in 1820. Early in the civil war she was a clerk in the patent office at Washington. Day after day she read accounts of the suffering of soldiers in camp and in hospital till she could endure no longer the heartache it gave her. The national military hospital department was at first quite unprepared for the task suddenly thrown upon it. Night and day the sorrowful picture of sick, wounded and dying men who needed help was before Clara Barton. At length she resigned her clerkship to go as a volunteer unpaid army nurse in hospital and on the battlefield. She likewise called on generous civilians to contribute to the relief of the soldiers. So much good did she and her helpers do that in 1864 she was appointed to take charge of the hospitals of the army in front of Richmond. She was on the field in several battles.

Miss Barton has a natural gift for organization and executive work. She began life as a teacher, which gave her the discipline of system and superintendence. Shortly before his death in 1865 President Lincoln commissioned her in behalf of the government to search for missing men of the Union army. This occupied her till weary and weak in health, she went to Europe for rest. While she was there came the Franco-Prussian contest, and once more Clara Barton took the part of a peaceful helper in war. By the time the war between Prussia and France had reached its height the Red Cross society of Europe was well organized, and Miss Barton had opportunity to see its beneficent work. At the close of the Franco-Prussian war she received the decoration of the iron cross of Germany.

She came home and earnestly sought to induce the United States government to join the international Red Cross agreement, which it did in October, 1881. Clara Barton was elected president of the American branch and held the office till this year.

MARY EDITH DAY.

A WORLD'S FAIR PROBLEM.

Question of What Shall Be Done With the Government Building.

The approach of the end of the world's fair at St. Louis has raised a question, What shall be done with the Government building? on which something like a quarter million dollars has been expended, says the New York Post's special correspondent at Washington. It is customary at the close of all such shows for the owners of the different buildings most of these being, of course, the property of the management—to put them up at public auction, where contractors bid them in for the material that can be saved and used elsewhere. The purchase of salvage rights involves the obligation also to take a building to pieces and carry away its parts, so that not only are a few dollars turned, but the ground is cleared and the exposition company saved a good deal of labor and expense in putting things once more into order.

At one exposition, where the government had put up an acceptable building at a cost of something like $125,000, it had to be knocked down to a salvage contractor for $5,000. This was the value set upon it by a board of appraisers in behalf of the government, so that there was no such thing as withdrawing the property from sale. Every exposition law carries a clause authorizing the official appraisal of the Government building and its sale to the highest bidder, but with the proviso that preference shall be given to the management of the exposition and the municipal authorities in the city where it is held. In the present instance the option of purchase will be given to the city of St. Louis and to the exposition company, neither of whom has yet come forward with an offer, but it has been reported that the city will make a bid, with a view to keeping the building where it is and using it for a park museum or something of that sort.

Of all the buildings erected at expositions since the era of these shows began this one is by all odds the finest. The great steel trusses used in its construction will doubtless raise its appraised value, even for salvage purposes, to somewhere about $25,000, and if this upset price seems prohibitory to the city fathers there are railroad companies which would beyond doubt be glad of the chance to buy all such heavy material. Outside of its framework and a very solid foundation the building does not amount to much, being made chiefly of wood and staff, and the latter being so affected by the climate that it has been kept in order only by a considerable expenditure in dribslets through the last six months.

APPENDIX AS MEMENTO.

Cleveland (O.) Man Contributed It to a Social Club's Cornerstone.

The appendix of Robert L. Ireland was recently placed in the iron box of the cornerstone of the Tavern club in Cleveland, O., by that gentleman himself, who said, as he dropped it into the receptacle:

"Such is my love for this club that I give part of myself into the keeping of the cornerstone."

The ceremonies attending the laying of this cornerstone by the Tavern club, which is one of the ultra fashionable ones of Cleveland, were very mysterious, being performed on Halloween night with dark and mysterious rites, says the New York Herald. The hour was midnight. Of course nobody was supposed to tell, but the story got out. Ireland is at present a member of the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co. He married a sister of Senator Hanna and is a member of the exclusive clubs of Cleveland as well as being prominent in society. A few weeks ago Ireland was operated on for appendicitis. The operation was entirely successful, and the appendix was preserved in alcohol.

Harry Devereaux deposited a shoe from his famous stallion McKerron.

Craze For Chinchilla Cats.

Chinchilla cats are the newest society pets, the craze for them coming direct from London, where a particularly beautiful specimen owned by Lady Decies recently won the blue ribbon in a class of 550 in the National Cat club show, says the New York Press. This variety of feline aristocrat is more magnificent even than the Persian, having long, silky, snowy hair, a face of extraordinary intelligence and a tail more luxurious than that of a Laverack setter. Fulmer Zaida, Lady Decies' prize winner, is valued at $5,000 by experts, but the proud owner after her pet's triumph said she wouldn't take twice that sum for the dainty tabby. Mrs. Van Rensselaer Kennedy has a pair of fine chinchillas in her country house in Hempstead, N. Y., that will be entered at the next show in the United States, and Mrs. Sidney Dillon Ripley is awaiting eagerly the arrival of a couple of kittens of the same breed from across the water. A fine tom, half brother to the British champion, is on the way from the category of Lady Decies to Mrs. James A. Burden.

Railroad Fireman With a Title.

William Van Eltz, a German nobleman, has been given employment as a fireman on the Michigan Central railroad through the intercession of President Ledyard, says a Laporite, Ind., special dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald. His run is from Jackson to Michigan City. He will be promoted to other positions by President Ledyard that he may acquire knowledge of every branch of railroad work and will finally return to Germany and take charge of an extensive railroad system there. Van Eltz has discarded all of his finery, and but for the knowledge of his rank he would not be singled out as a distinguished personage.

REUNION OF AGED PUPILS

Students Under Indiana Teacher Fifty Years Ago Celebrate.

OLD TIME CUSTOMS FOLLOWED.

An Aged Grandmother Showed How She Used to Weave Jeans Upon an Ancient Loom—"Bad Boys" in Contrast to Avaricious Which One Was Whipped Most by Their Schoolmaster.

A notable affair which vividly recalled the school days of early Indiana took place recently in the Beech Grove church in Johnson county in honor of Professor Benjamin F. Kennedy, the last county examiner under the old and the first county superintendent under the new law, says a special dispatch from Indianapolis to the Chicago Record-Herald. Professor Kennedy now is in his eighty-fourth year, and the occasion was a reunion of the men and women, together with their children and their children's children, who had been his pupils in the old days. Men and women were in the assemblage who were gray with age, many of them having passed the three score years and ten mark.

The projectors of the reunion determined that it should be a reminder of the old days in every particular, and everything modern was tabooed. In one corner of the church an old loom, a relic of fifty years ago, was set up, and an aged grandmother showed how she used to weave jeans and liney upon it. Beside it was a spinning wheel, and another grandmother made it whirl and hum for the edification of the young as she walked slowly backward and forward, running the yarn over the spindle to the music of the rapidly revolving wheel. A blanket was hung in another corner of the church, and an aged woman told how she had sheared the sheep, carded the wool, spun it into yarn and then woven it into a blanket more than fifty years ago.

The menu was abundant, but the dishes were the same as those served fifty years ago. Beef and mutton boiled before an open fireplace in a pot suspended from a crane, roast pig cooked in an oven with live coals underneath and on the lid and chicken fried before an open fire constituted the meats, and there was enough for two or three reunions. Corn pone and light bread similarly baked, succotash, Irish and sweet potatoes, apple and pear butter, old fashioned ginger bread, cookies and rye coffee sweetened with maple sugar, pumpkin and apple pie and maple molasses made up the meal.

The meal was preceded by a reception, in which every one went about renewing acquaintances. After dinner Ara Clark, one of the earliest pupils of Professor Kennedy, was called upon to preside, and the meeting was formally opened. Speeches were made by a number of the old settlers, and the pranks that they played on the teacher, the hardships that they underwent in pioneer life and their "sparkling" of the girls were all gone over.

Then came the contest of the day. A prize was offered for the man who had received the greatest number of whippings from Professor Kennedy, and Ara Clark, the president; Dr. Ira Willan, Senator J. J. Moore, P. S. Hamilton and J. R. Shank entered the lists. Each told of the whippings he had received and the causes leading up to them, the kind of rod that Professor Kennedy had wielded and just how badly it had hurt. When all had told their stories it was voted that Mr. Kennedy should decide and that the decision should be based both on quantity and quality.

The aged professor viewed the characteristics of each of the contestants as he remembers them after the lapse of more than fifty years and then decided in favor of Ara Clark. The decision was received with applause.

Before the day closed a permanent organization of the pupils of Professor Kennedy was effected, and it is proposed to hold annual reunions as long as he shall live. Money was also raised to have a life size portrait of the venerable teacher painted, and this will be hung in the county superintendent's office in Franklin.

Jolt For the "12" Superstition.

The organization of the Women's club by thirteen Springfield (Mass.) society women was regarded with misgiving by the superstitious. But the club, says the New York World, recently celebrated its twentieth anniversary, having outlived every other women's club in Springfield. Of the original thirteen members all but one were present.

The Modern Builder.

[Radium terrace is the name given by a suburban builder to houses he is building at Twickenham, England.]

The enterprising builder who would offer something new must abandon Bella Vista and the hick-nut Ocean View. He must put up something startling that will make the tenant stare.

For instance, X Ray gardens or perhaps Uranium square.

Of course the new diseases sometimes lend a little aid. I've built Bubonic terrace and Insomnia parade. Enteric park—the very name is killing off the rats.

And Beriberi mansions and Appendicitis flats.

Without the far east war I could not have got on at all. It gave me Banzai buildings and Rojostevnik hall. There's Shabo gardens—and it only took a little "moo."

To name Uroki cottages and Kuropatkin house.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

Trotting races at night under electric light is a new feature of Pennsylvania harness doings.

The pacing mare Nell Mc, by Pilot Wilkes, recently reduced her record from 2:17 1/2 to 2:10 1/4.

S. J. Schermerhorn, Chicago, has sold to James Clanner, same city, the trotting mare Lady Elver.

Elastic will not be given a chance to show this season whether or no she is a coming two minute performer, as many think.

Fred Keyes has been racing on the Michigan short ship circuit with Mustang, 2:08 1/4; the green pacer mare Lemme, owned by J. T. O'Brien; Prince Dais, a green trotter, by Bow Belle, 2:19 1/4, and a green trotter by Judge Ryder.

A syndicate of horsemen from Cleveland, Canton and Dayton have purchased the gray pacing gelding King Daniel, 2:20 1/4, by Mambrino Albion, for $800, to be raced on the Ohio half mile tracks by Alie Waters of Canal Dover, O.

The great old pacer Vitello, 2:00 1/2, by Legal Tender, Jr., now nineteen years old, has lost none of his old time speed. He paced an exhibition half in 1:05 at Kalamazoo, Mich., recently. Vitello is now owned by Henry D. Kools of Kalamazoo.

He Collapsed.

A somewhat elderly gentleman, with a merry twinkle in his eye, went into a hairdresser's the other day to have his hair cut.

"Excuse me, sir," said the hairdresser as he began operations; "but your hair is very coarse."

"Of course," ejaculated the gentleman.

The hairdresser looked rather puzzled and said, "I mean it won't lie straight, sir."

"No. You see, it can't lie straight or even tell the truth, because it can't talk," smiled the gentleman.

The hairdresser, who began to suspect that he was being played with, felt mad and said abruptly, "Bear's grease?"

"Oh, yes," exclaimed the gentleman. "It bears grease or oil or fat of any description. In fact, I should say, it would bear anything or it wouldn't have borne your remarks about it."—London Tit-Bits.

Will be the Companions of the Louisville Girl on Her Long Bridal Tour.

St. Louis, Nov. 9.—The strangest bridal tour any bride ever had will be that of Miss Sallie Gallagher, of Louisville, Ky., who is to be married to Dr. T. K. Hunt, governor of the Igorroo village at the World's Fair, before the close of the Exposition. It will be a journey of over 10,000 miles over land and sea, with 75 savages as traveling companions, and the destination will be the haunts of the head-hunting Bontoks in the mountains of Luzon, where the feet of a white woman have not hitherto trod.

The wedding journey will be in keeping with the courtship and its setting. It has taken place amid the make-believe scenes of the mimic Luzon at the Fair, and both the courtship and its representation of Eastern life have been the fit settings to the realities that are to follow.

Miss Gallagher has been acting as Dr. Hunt's stenographer for several months. He got a divorce from his former wife after the Exposition opened.

E. Stuart, representative of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., will be at the Hotel Ludlow every Monday evening from 8:30 o'clock to 9:30 o'clock. Call and see him. 11-9m-ws12t

The Medicine That Cures.

Wine of Cardui absolutely cures sick women. I consider it the most valuable medicine, and it is the cheapest cure any sick woman can use, as it takes as a rule, only a few bottles to effect a complete and lasting cure. I especially recommend it for irregular troubles, inflammation and ulceration, painful, profuse or scanty menstruation and it is a most valuable adjunct to use during the gestative period, insuring easy childbirth and speedy recovery.

It should have a place in every home as it is a true friend to wife, mother and maiden and I most heartily recommend it.

Dr. Mrs. Buchanan is an authority on the science of medicine and certainly appreciates the great work physicians are doing for the relief of sufferers. But this does not deter her from expressing her views in praise of Wine of Cardui.

Mrs. Buchanan's high intelligence and long and successful experience render her advice of great value. Wine of Cardui regulates menstruation, cures bearing-down pains and relieves suffering women of the pain and misery to which their sex is heir. You have the word of Dr. Buchanan and thousands of other eminent women that Wine of Cardui will completely cure you.

SUDDENLY

JOHN MOORE, NIGHT CLERK AT THE WARDEN DIES.

While Walking Along the Street He Was Stricken and Died in His Room.

John Moore, the well known and popular night clerk at the Hotel Warden, is dead. Monday evening he was up and around as usual, and was apparently in the enjoyment of good health. About four o'clock as he was walking along the pavement on the east side of the square, he was seen to fall near the alley at the postoffice. Mr. Phil Wickham, who happened to be standing near, went to his assistance and picked him up. He then placed him in a comfortable position and told him to remain there for a few moments while he went for assistance. Mr. Wickham then notified the hotel people, and the unfortunate man was removed to his room in the hotel. He complained that one of his legs pained him considerably, but otherwise he was feeling all right.

About six o'clock the bell boy went to his room to call him to go on duty for the night, when he was found to be dead, the spark of life having evidently expired some time before. Dr. Miller was called and upon examination found that death was due to organic heart disease.

Coroner C. F. Legge was called and viewed the body, and secured the names of a number of witnesses and an inquest will be held.

The deceased was a single man, aged about 26 years. He came here from Rochester, N. Y., about six months ago to accept the position of night clerk at the Warden, and had made many friends during his short residence in Newark. He was prominent in secret society circles, and was a member of Park Lodge No. 516, F. & A. M. of Rochester, and was also a member of an Odd Fellows lodge of that city.

Coroner Legge wired the brother-in-law of the deceased, Mr. J. N. Rebb, of Rochester, who immediately replied, requesting him to take charge of the remains, and saying that he would leave on the first train for Newark.

SOLDIERS

Are in "Deep" and Are Anxious That Stoesell Surrender to the Japanese.

Chief of Nov. 9.—The Japanese besieging Port Arthur, knowing Lieutenant General Stoesell, the commander of the Russian military forces there, have offered terms of surrender to the Russian soldiers, according to advices leaving Port Arthur on Monday. In the meanwhile the ceaseless activity of picks and spades continues. The Japanese are gradually advancing their trenches, which spell inexorable fate to the watching Russians.

A Russian prisoner, captured October 26, said the troops composing the garrison of Port Arthur were in wait and dispirited. They saw the fruitlessness of the struggle. Hopeless of relief, with food scarce and medicine and hospital supplies insufficient, it was admitted by the Russians that a Japanese victory was ultimately inevitable. The soldiers, according to the prisoner, see no reason to prolong the resistance which brings glory to their officers, but chiefly hardships and death to them. Upon hearing the prisoner's story, General Nogi assembled his staff, discussed the matter briefly and then under the light of a bicycle lantern drafted a letter to be circulated among the soldiers themselves, the prisoner having promised to deliver it to his comrades.

The letter, written in General Kurepatkin's retreat, and his inability to make an impression on the army of Field Marshal Oyama, to say nothing of breaking through "his forces" and relieving Port Arthur. The letter also pointed out that the second Russian Pacific squadron has just started on its slow voyage. Continuing it called attention to the resistance advance of the Japanese trenches, making it a matter of weeks when the Japanese would walk into the main Russian strongholds. In conclusion the letter offered humane treatment to all who surrender, saying it was in the interest of humanity to prevent further useless slaughter. In the darkness of the early morning of November 4 several copies of the letter written in Russian were given to the prisoner, who regained the Russian lines unobserved by his officers. That night the Russian returned, saying his comrades would answer within a few days. He said the temper of the men seemed to show that while they were faithful to their fate they also did not like the idea of an unconditional surrender. The letter did much, however, to dispel among the Russian troops the impression fostered by their officers that a massacre would follow a Japanese victory. The company to which the prisoner belonged originally numbered 800 and now totals 30 men.

As the Japanese are sufficiently near the summits of the hills to render them highly practicable, much of this work is now being done. The Russians are building a tunnel. When over side fields its tunnel under the enemy's lines in the latter's position. To prevent explosives being rolled down into their trenches the Japanese made ranges of hillocks of earth above the trenches.

Five Russian minesweeping steamers have been sunk by Japanese shells.

CAPTAIN GEORGE H. GAILOR

Relates a Tough Experience While Engaged on the C. and P. R. R.

Captain Gailor writes that he was in very poor health and so nervous that some days he had to call his fireman to the throttle. He would be awake at night and look ahead to his next day's work with fear and dread. He had no appetite, his stomach rebelled at what little food he ate, and he was altogether miserable and discouraged. After trying many medicines without any benefit, Vinol was recommended, and he wants all his friends to know that

CAPT. GEO. H. GAILOR.

It has made a new man of him. He says it has restored his health and strength, he sleeps soundly, and every morning he feels rested, strong and eager for work. He feels convinced that there is no other medicine in the world that will invigorate and create strength like Vinol.

Our local druggist Frank D. Hall says that what Vinol did for Mr. Gailor, it will do for any man, woman or child in Newark, because Vinol contains in a concentrated form all of the body-building, strength-creating elements of cod liver oil without oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work.

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person in Newark an every person suffering with a stubborn cold, bronchitis, cough, bronchitis or incipient consumption, to try Vinol on our guarantee. Frank D. Hall, druggist.

Little Girls Frightened.

Several small girls were badly frightened Tuesday night by a strange man chasing them through the alley adjacent to the residence of Dr. Sedgwick. The screams of the girls attracted the attention of a number of men, who gave chase but the man escaped.

ALL IN LINE FOR 1908

(Pittsburg Post.)

Tuesday the majority of the voters of the Nation decided in the manner provided by the constitution that they desired that Theodore Roosevelt should be President of the United States instead of Alton B. Parker. While this is disappointing to those who believe in the principles of the Democratic party it will in no way discourage the sincere and loyal advocates of those principles. Rather they will derive encouragement from the fact that in the face of all the difficulties which were presented, and which were obvious to the experienced political observer, so many millions of Democrats should have come to the polls and voted their convictions.

The problem presented to the Democratic party was a most difficult one. It had in the first place to secure harmony in its own ranks and to induce men who for eight years had been in opposition to get together. This result was largely achieved, but the attaining of it required time and energy which ordinarily would have been devoted to campaign work. Then there was some friction as to which of the issues before the people should be considered the most important. Finally when Judge Parker himself settled the matter to the satisfaction of all his supporters in his speeches it was too late for those remarkable utterances to have their full effect upon the body of the voters generally. Had the campaign lasted a few weeks longer or the Democratic candidate been in a position to press home the attacks upon the trust policy of the administration earlier the election would have told a vastly different story.

Mr. Dawes had a narrow escape.

The Trusts will continue to do business at the same old stand for four years.

Not much use to say anything today. We haven't recovered from the shock.

By special request we refrain from letting any of our readers out of the coop this evening.

The trusts at first deciding to take no hand in the campaign, loosened their pursestrings in the closing weeks of the battle and you see the result.

The one bright spot on the local situation is the election of Jos. R. Moser as councilman from the Third ward. We extend congratulations to the energetic and capable Third ward councilman.

Among the astonishing features of this remarkable election is the fact that in the face of a heavy Republican majority in Massachusetts, the Democrats of that state elected a Democratic governor. And so did Minnesota.

The local Democratic ticket has met with defeat in the terrific landslide but the party has the satisfaction of knowing that the ticket went down with colors flying. The Democratic county ticket from top to bottom was deserving of a better fate.

Track Inspection.

The regular inspection of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has begun, and automatic car No. 906 has started out of Baltimore to make a tour of the entire system. On the return trip the train will arrive at Newark on the thirteenth. The trip from Newark to Benwood and as far as Cameron is to be made on the 11th and on the following day as far as Cumberland over the main line. From Cumberland the inspection special will take a tour of the roads through the state and over the B & O S. W. rounding in at Parkersburg on the 21st. On the 25th day the train will make the trip over the Ohio River division to this city and will remain over night here. On the 26th the train will go from here to Conneville, Pa.

The car which makes a record of the conditions of the track is automatic with the attachment to the car wheel which shows the exact condition of the track and records the same on a paper ribbon. Then the bad places in the track are marked on the rail with white paint for the benefit of the track foremen who make a trip over their section after the car and note the same.

MAN-PROPELLED TORPEDO

The Herreshoff's Invention That May Supersede the Torpedo Boat.

The Herreshoffs of yacht-building fame have invented a torpedo conveying and propelling system which, if successful, does away with the torpedo boat, and reduces the submarine boat in its possibilities. The business of the torpedo boat is to convey the torpedo within striking distance of the battleship or cruiser and to discharge the torpedo.

The Herreshoffs propose to construct a larger torpedo than the present standardized Whitehead, and to use it just as a small whaleback boat would be employed. Two men wearing life preservers set out with a rowing boat, or from large vessels and navigate it within striking distance of the enemy's craft, point it, lock the steering gear, slip off into the water and wait to be picked up. The torpedo thus launched with far better aim than from a tube, and with a longer carrying range, could scarcely fail to sink its victim. As it is now, the percentage of torpedoes that "arrive" is but one in twelve. If a man can cross the North Atlantic in a 16-foot dory, as has been done more than once, two men should be able to navigate a pneumatically sustained Herreshoff torpedo in some very rough weather—Everybody's Magazine.

SOUGHT REAL BARGAIN

Couldn't Understand the Store's System of Marking Down.

It is evident that she was troubled. "I think I prefer this," she said, indicating a roll of cloth on the counter. "You say it has been marked down from 12 to 10 cents a yard?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the clerk. "It's really what I want," she continued, "but this," she indicated another roll, "has been marked down from 12 to 10 cents a yard, as I understand you."

"Yes, ma'am."

"Then I should think the other ought to be down to 9 1/2 cents."

"That would be cheaper than we can afford to sell it ma'am."

"But you have taken 2 1/2 cents off the price of the other and only 2 cents off this," she protested, taking up the first roll again. "That makes the other the better bargain."

"It's very cheap at 10 cents a yard, ma'am."

"I suppose it is, but it isn't as good a bargain as the other."

"I can't make it any less."

"Then I suppose I will have to take the 12 1/2-cent goods, but it seems a shame when I would rather have the other. You may give me 10 yards."

SERIOUSLY

Was Miss Emma Harris Injured in a Runaway Accident Near the Village of Utica.

Utica, O., Nov. 3.—Miss Emma Harris, who lives near Utica, is lying seriously ill at her home, suffering from injuries sustained Saturday evening while returning from Newark with Mr. Cary Van Winkle, whose home is near Martinsburg. The horse which they were driving upset the buggy, throwing them over a high embankment. Miss Harris alighted on her head and was rendered unconscious for several hours. It is feared that she may not recover.

that the Republicans have elected 195 congressmen and the Democrats 141. Of the remaining 50 districts, 37 are now represented by Republicans and 13 by Democrats.

Peabody Defeated.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 9.—The Times Democrat concedes that Roosevelt carries Colorado by 5,000 or 6,000 plurality and claims that Adams (Dem.) will have 8,000 majority over Peabody for governor.

Cleveland Mum.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Former President Grover Cleveland declined to comment on the result of the election.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 9.—The few scattered returns so far received indicate the usual Democratic majorities. The Democratic candidates for congress are all elected.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9.—Roosevelt has carried South Dakota by 40,000, and Chairman Crane of the Republican state central committee puts the figures at 50,000.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9.—The total vote in Georgia will count up a little more than 40,000, which is very light. It is conceded that all Democratic congressmen are elected.

TENNESSEE.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 9.—The vote in Tennessee has been light. Early returns indicate an estimated Democratic plurality of 25,000.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 9.—At Democratic state headquarters it is conceded that Roosevelt has carried the state by 8,000 plurality.

Democratic Governor Elected.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Sufficient returns from the state election have been received to indicate the election of William L. Douglas (Dem.) for governor by almost 20,000 plurality. Complete returns from the city of Boston for president give: Parker, 49,453; Roosevelt, 38,550. The total vote for governor in Boston was: Bates, 28,576; Douglas, 62,619. Parker carried the city by 10,874 plurality. Douglas carried Boston by 34,045 plurality.

Parker in Defeat.

Esopus, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Judge Parker conceded the election of President Roosevelt when he received a bulletin that the Democratic national headquarters had already admitted that every doubtful state had been carried by the Republican national ticket.

ZANESVILLE

DISTRICT ELECTS DAWES BY A CLOSE MARGIN.

Muskingum Goes for Roosevelt by 1600 Yet Dawes Opponent Carried the County by 1500.

Zanesville, O., Nov. 9.—Beman G. Dawes, the former Newark gas man, now living in Marietta, was elected to Congress by a plurality of about 200 after the hottest campaign ever waged in this, the fifteenth congressional district.

In Muskingum county Schneider, the Democratic candidate for Congress carried the county by 1500 notwithstanding the fact that Muskingum went for Roosevelt by 1600 to 1700.

Morgan county went for Dawes by 400, Guernsey for Schneider by 400 to 600, Washington for Dawes by 1400 and Noble for Dawes by 200 to 400. In Muskingum county the Republicans elect everybody but members of the school board and one councilman. The Democrats have elected all their three candidates for school board.

MR. DAWES' CLAIM.

Marietta, O., Nov. 9.—While reports from Zanesville this noon give Dawes' plurality only 200 Mr. Dawes himself claims that he will be elected by 500.

D. A. BRICKER

Brother of Newark Druggist is Elected Mayor of Utica—The Results in Utica.

Utica, O., Nov. 9.—D. A. Bricker, stevedore, brother of Cery F. Bricker, the Newark druggist, was elected Mayor of Utica by 21 majority over C. S. Hall, Democrat.

Roosevelt had 207 and Parker 77 in the village and the entire Republican local ticket was elected. Ross Higgins defeated A. Vance for marshal by 31 votes.

SMYSER

Republican Candidate for Congress Carries Seventeenth District by About 2100.

M. L. Smyser (Rep) has defeated J. E. Hurst (Dem) for Congress in this district by about 2100. The estimated figures as telegraphed the Advocate are here given:

County.	Smyser.	Hurst.
Coshocton	209	209
Wayne	850	850
Duscarawas	1350	1350
Holmes	700	1009
Licking	3100	1009

Coshocton, Nov. 9.—At noon today it is announced that Smyser carries Coshocton county by about 200.

Wooster, O., Nov. 9.—At 1 p. m. the Democrats concede that Smyser carried Wayne county by 850.

POLLS CLOSED

Dispute of College Students Prevents 471 Men From Casting Their Votes.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9.—The disagreement between the Republicans and the Democrats here regarding the right of Rutgers college students to vote resulted in keeping the polls of the Sixth ward closed all day, and 471 registered voters lost their votes.

The Republican election officers placed the names of 35 students on the registry list, and the Democratic members of the board refused to register them. The county board did not determine the question of the legality of either list, and the Democratic and Republican election officials got into a wrangle over the students' ballots early in the day, and for hours all the voters who appeared were turned away from the polling place.

Finally legal counsel was consulted, and it was decided that no ballots be given out, and the polls were kept closed all day.

PARKER

Early in the Evening Sent a Message of Congratulation to the President.

Esopus, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Judge Parker conceded the election of President Roosevelt at 8:30 p. m., when he received a bulletin that the Democratic national headquarters had already admitted that every doubtful state had been carried by the Republican national ticket.

He appeared to be not at all downhearted by the result, although it is known that he greatly deplored his overwhelming defeat in his own state. He received the discouraging news in his study, where he sat smoking with two of his neighbors.

When asked if he had any statement to make he pulled a telegraph blank toward him and wrote hastily for a moment. Then he said:

"I am going to send this telegram to President Roosevelt."

The message was dispatched at once. At that hour returns were indefinite and the judge declined to make an extended statement. He said his telegram to the president conveyed everything about the situation that he knew, that the result was evident, even though details were lacking.

The demeanor of Judge Parker as he heard the bulletin read was of cheerful resignation. He wore the air of one who could say if he would, "I will die game," and die game he did.

He discussed the returns with his friends and compared the figures with former years. It might have been some other man's defeat for all the concern he seemed to feel.

Around Judge Parker throughout the evening were the members of his family and their guests, Dr. and Mrs. Emory Freer and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis B. Long of Esopus.

Judge Parker retired at 11:40 o'clock, declining to make any statement beyond that indicated by his telegram to President Roosevelt which said: "The people by their votes have emphatically approved your administration and I congratulate you."

NOTICE

The Newark Directory Company, which is composed of Newark men, has organized to publish a directory for the city of Newark for 1905. It is the object of the company to give the people of Newark, Ohio, a first-class directory; exact in every particular, canvassed by good men and containing less advertising matter. The names of all inhabitants over the age of 12 will appear in the directory. The names of subscribers will be printed in heavy type. Men are taking subscriptions and it is the desire of the company to place the directory in every business place in the city. The rapid growth of the city demands an up-to-date publication for 1905 and nothing will be spared to give it to the people.

OFFENSIVE CATARRH

I suffered for a long time with a bad case of Catarrh, and took a great deal of medicine without any benefit. I had a continual headache, my cheeks had grown purple, my nose was always stopped up, my breath had a sickening and disgusting odor, and I coughed incessantly. I heard of your S. S. S. and wrote you. I commenced to use it, and after taking several bottles it was cured and I have never since had the slightest symptom of the disease. MISS MARY L. STORM, Cor. 7th & Felix Sts., St. Joseph, Mo.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 29, 1903. I had Nasal Catarrh for years for which I used S. S. S. with very gratifying results. I tried local applications for some time, and getting no permanent relief I came to the conclusion that the seat of the trouble was in the blood. Knowing S. S. S. to be a good blood medicine I began its use, and after using it for some little while it did away entirely with the offensive mucus in the nostrils, and I did not have to hawk and spit, especially in the morning, to dislodge the catarrhal matter. 7627 South St. FRED H. PRESSY.

The filthy secretions and foul mucus that are continually dropping back into the throat, find their way into the stomach and are absorbed into the blood. Catarrh then becomes constitutional, and the only way to get rid of it is through the blood. Write us if you have Catarrh, and our physicians will advise you without charge. 7627 South St. FRED H. RETURNED

From a Trip Through Space Has Astral Body of Mrs. Davis Who Tells of Wanderings.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—So much interested was the astral body of Dr. Nora Davis in the election that it returned from a jaunt through space. For 22 days, according to her adherents, the astral body of Mrs. Davis has wandered through the universe. In the presence of her class and spectators the migratory spirit rehabilitated itself in the earthly body in the Board of Trade Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Davis has not taken and the first time that her awakening and demonstration had taken place in public. For more than three weeks the body of Mrs. Davis, deprived of its soul, lay in the home of E. H. Groome, of 1444 Franklin avenue, where the subject first entered upon her spiritual ascension October 11th. No solid nourishment, it is said by the attendants, passed her lips during that period. The nearest approach to food of any sort has been a few crackers and crumbs of bread moistened in coffee. During its flight the astral body visited Neptune Saturn, Venus, Jupiter and Mars. Mrs. Davis says that waves from the earth kept her well informed of things here, but she was so busy absorbing the new things brought to her attention that she gave mundane affairs little heed. She discovered a new planet, the beauties of which are simply transcendental. Love is the very life of the immortals there, and so pure and holy are the minds of the lucky denizens of the far off world that there are not even thoughts of evil. According to Mrs. Davis the men and women of the new planet are beauty personified and so wholly captivating that she even fell in love with them. Just as soon as Mrs. Davis recovers from the long journey she will tell tales of her wonderful trip.

IN NEWARK

CROWDS WERE OUT TO HEAR THE ELECTION NEWS.

Gas Franchise and School Bond Issue Carried—The Figures Not Yet Obtainable.

The election in Newark city on Tuesday passed off very quietly, every precinct being efficiently patrolled.

It was early seen that a heavy vote was going to be polled, and by noon many of the precincts, two-thirds of the registered vote had been polled.

The count was necessarily slow on account of the four ballots which had to be tabulated, with the result that the returns were late in coming in.

The interest in the general result was so manifest that every election officer in the city was anxious to return the figures on this outcome, that they were sent to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors as soon as obtained.

Three other tickets were voted but these were counted after the general ticket, and placed in sealed envelopes, which were not opened until Wednesday morning by the Board of Supervisors.

The figures on the school board, the bond issue of $25,000 for an eight-room school building in Woodside addition, and the question of granting a franchise to A. H. Heisey to lay gas mains in the city, were not obtainable, but from unofficial information it can be definitely stated that the three Republican and three Democratic candidates for board of education were overwhelmingly elected over the three Socialist candidates.

The men elected are Jasper M. Keck, D. M. Keller, Seth W. Haigh, Democrats; John S. Fulton, William Christian and Frank L. Beggs, Republicans.

The gas franchise proposition resulted in an almost unanimous verdict in favor of granting the Heisey company the desired franchise.

The question of issuing bonds for the building of a Woodside school also carried, but there were a number of votes against it and another set of ballots expressed no choice.

Interest was manifested early in the evening and crowds gathered at all the places where it had been anticipated that returns would be received.

The Advocate office was crowded until early Wednesday morning, with an anxious throng of seekers for the latest news.

The general result was indicated before eight o'clock, by telegrams from New York, Indiana, New Jersey, Illinois and other doubtful states, but interest was in the result in Licking county, and not until after midnight was it indicated with certainty.

At the Elks club rooms, returns were flashed upon a screen and great crowds congregated in front of the Omel building on the front of which the canvass was stretched.

Never in the history of the Y. M. C. A. has any undertaking met with more unqualified success than that of furnishing the election returns Tuesday night. About 4000 people were there until midnight, and were entertained by the Imperial orchestra, composed of E. E. Mitchell, violin, R. C. Kobel, cornet, G. J. Friel, piano, U. R. Decker drums.

Prof. J. T. Week of Pittsburgh, gave several excellent demonstrations of magic which delighted all present. A. L. Rawlings loaned his big Victor talking machine, which entertained things between the returns. The Spa, the little lunch window, was never so popular and did a rushing business.

The returns were furnished over a special Bell telephone.

The Newark Telephone company did most excellent service to its patrons, and Manager C. E. Hollander was indefatigable in his efforts to give the latest and most accurate news from over the entire country.

The news was flashed on a screen and phoned to subscribers.

The Powers-Miller company which received the Western Union bulletins, posted the returns in their big windows and entertained a large crowd.

WIDOW'S FAMILY

Of Three Found Dead and It Is Believed That They May Have Been Poisoned.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—When Sophia Wyant, a widow, went to her home in Milo, a suburb, from work last night, she found her two children, Earl aged 5, and Harry, aged 3, and her mother Rachel Van Fossen, aged 63, dead. The children were in bed and the grandmother in a chair. It is presumed that they were asphyxiated by fumes from a burning gas stove. Mrs. Wyant lit a lamp after her return to the house. The deaths were not caused by unburned gas or there would have been an explosion. Coroner Murphy is making an investigation to determine if the family had been poisoned. The Wyants came here from Glenroy, Ohio.

The size of the smoochstack of some of the steamships which leave New York is an interesting topic among folks long shore. A convincing proof of their size is seen in this comparison: The new East river tunnel, which the Pennsylvania railroad is about to build, is about the same diameter as the funnels of the Lucania and Campania, that is, 21 feet. It seems hard to realize that two trains of cars could run side-by-side through the stacks of either of these vessels if they were laid flat.

DANGER IN THE KISS.

Professors claim that kissing is dangerous. That danger lurks in kissing. Dear reader, you are not aware of what you have been missing. If after kissing some sweet girl, you do not feel a little dizzy, it seems you really do not kiss. All that is coming to you.

For indeed, kissing is a very fine, dangerous thing. According to the latest tips, to bite the lady's steady. If they can only get him lured within the zone of danger. Before the sweet girl can get away, he will have been a stranger.

It really seems a really tick, almost too mean to mention. Just when a fellow's getting thick and paying her attention. That when he plants a loving kiss to help him in his wooing. There should turn up a germ like this to aid in his undoing.

But to a couple young and gay such talk as this seems silly. And not a thing to be dismayed to marry and while. A smack, that's clinging, sweet and warm with supplement their glances. And though a million microbes swarm they'll bravely take their chances.

The Dying Year.

How inexpressibly sad and solemn to witness the dying of the year! The flowers fade, the leaves fall to earth and the erstwhile festive mosquito throws a couple of its turns up his toes and is no more.

Nature sleeps after its supreme effort; the sad eyed kine stand around and chew their cud as industriously as though it were the morning and over their last pastures, while their consciences twitche as they watch the milkman work away at the pump to make up the shortage.

But that is not the saddest part by half. Just around the corner up some dark and unfrequented alley the coal man lurks to take what is left of your summer savings, the wind whistles mournfully down the pipe in ragtime strains, and your feet in your lower left vest pocket to see if the pawn ticket for your overcoat is still there. On top of all this Christmas is coming, and every last nephew, niece and forty-second cousin will expect an expensive present in exchange for a 5-cent necktie or a cheap Christmas card.

Truly it is to weep.

THE NEWEST FABRICS.

Some of the New Shades Used in Autumn Dress Goods.

Heretofore, melton cloth has been employed only for coats, and heavy ones at that, but this season shows many full suits of that handsome if rather stiff material, which is produced in many colors. Green in several shades is seen, and so is red, the favorite, however, being the dull, dark shade known among women as jontiqu, though I am sure I never saw a jontiqu of that color.

Naturally this melton cloth, being the reverse of plush, is made in styles where "hills" are gathered in and no "plaits" show on it. Each one of these suits depends upon the cut and finish and is exceptionally rich and handsome. Illustrated here will be seen such a suit. The skirt is cut quite plain, with only a trifle of flare at the bottom, and is tailor finished. A waist of the same is often furnished, made tight fitting and generally with small positions at the back and some arrangement of a vest in front. These vest fronts are very dressy and usually very becoming. But there are women who prefer the soft blouse waists, and these are going to remain with us for the rest of this season at least.

Speaking of the velvet reminds me of the new and for the crushed velvet, as some call them, broadtail velvets. Broadtail in fact, par excellence, is a sort of wavy effect on the black fur. It is very rich and used to be called more astrakhan. These velvets have a very thick and close pile, and this is crushed in the finishing in some way and makes a new material out of an old standard one. The newest colors are a sort of coppery red and a deep yellow, with a golden brown cast, in some lights almost metallic.

The coat belonging to this suit in question has a plain front, and the back is made in two styles, one being plain in box shape and the other made rather wider all the way down the back and then held in with a strap across the back at the waist line. This fancy for straps in the back is one that has gained quite a large following. I forgot to mention the velvet cuffs and flat collars that are always found on this style of coat. Sometimes they are of a darker shade and again of exactly the shade of the melton, which makes it appear very different in some lights. Half a dozen plain black buttons close the front, which is always double-breasted. Some have plain coat sleeves, while others have them made more or less fanciful. This style of costume is to be very general this season. In this connection we may speak of hats, as the hat is, when possible, made to match the gown and coat. In this particular case the hat is of the felt of the same red shade and is trimmed with small, close loops of red velvet ribbon, set around the crown like a wreath, while another line of the loops lies against the hair on the right side to tilt the hat sharply to the left, which is against all established precedent.

Covert cloth in all sorts of unusual colors is among the favorite dress goods, and it must be admitted that it is very neat and ladylike. Cravenettes in gray, fawn, russet and dove gray are seen in the handsomest made up street gowns, some with jackets and others with longer coats, some even having regulation rain coats.

Velvet is so very much the rage this season that no one will be entirely happy until she has a gown or at least a coat of that superb fabric. Hats also are very rich and elegant made of it and wrought into shape by the feather shirring piping. The edges are generally left so that they form ruffles, the featherbone being run in, two or more-pipings about half to three-quarters of an inch from the edge. Long and rich plumes of ostrich or mauve plumes trim them.

Among the pretty new fancies is that of having sets of black velvet ribbon made into neckbands and bracelets. They are very becoming. The way to make them is to take a piece of inch wide elastic and ribbon one-third longer than the elastic, which should be stretched a little to fit the wrists, so that it will remain gathered when on. Then lay the velvet ribbon along and pull the elastic and sew the ribbon on the drawn places, repeating till it is an

The Man's Woman

Her Particular Method

It beats the dickens," remarked Miss Primly, "how some girls manage to have so many men around them."

"Now, I am popular," I simply have to pull every wire I know in order to get enough men for my entertainment. Isn't that odd?"

"Not a bit of it," returned Miss Que. "You are a very good woman."

"Man's woman," a man's woman, hear that phrase all the time. What does it mean?"

"Not anything devilish, my dear, although I can see a look of virtuous aloofness in your eye. The man's woman is simply possessed of qualities not found in the average. Being broad minded, she takes what is known as the man's point of view, and this, I think, little attention so flatters him that he is ready to be good to her in a thousand little ways, besides enjoying her conversation because it is so different from most women's—so sensible."

"The deceitful thing."

"No more deceitful than you were the other day when you were trying to impress Mrs. Richly and you agreed with her on several statements which I happened to know were directly opposed to your point of view."

"Well—er—I—"

"Oh, of course, I understand! But to change a painful subject tell me when you do have a masculine caller, how do you entertain him?"

"Why, I usually take him right in with the family. That makes it so much more lively and pleasant."

"Yes, in some cases. And I suppose every one talks to him at once and your father regales him with bits out of the evening paper?"

"Well, sometimes I take him into the drawing room."

"Do you let him smoke?"

"In the drawing room."

"Oh, I forgot! To be sure, you can't afford to scent the hangings. You may need them ten years from now! And how do you entertain him? Do you sing or play?"

"I only sing classical music, and most men sing or play or other don't seem to have that refined taste."

"I'm—well, my dear, if you intend to be a heartbreaker, singing the high you want to give up doing only what you are about. And what subjects of conversation do you introduce?"

"That's easier. I talk about the latest books and plays and golf and—"

"Oh, glory—the usual girl talk! But he gets at every house! I suppose he deigns promptly after three-quarters of an hour?"

"How did you guess?"

"My dear, I judged by my own feelings. I would if I were a man."

"Well, how does your precious man's woman manage to keep him?"

PERKINS' FRESH AIR FUND

By EPES W. SARGENT

Copyright, 1904, by Epes W. Sargent

Perkins' real name was Chester Albert Montgomery Pfister, and it was his graceless uncle, Jack Pfister, who had shortened it to Perkins, a title the bearer wore with meek resignation.

It was Jack Pfister also who had declared Perkins to have been born a professional philanthropist. From his boyhood Perkins had been possessed by a love of giving which he had made his life's business. He had been brought up to the idea that his gifts be heralded to the world. Mrs. Pfister labored in vain to instill into his mind the value of unostentatious charity. Once she had even sought to enforce her argument by aid of a hairbrush, only to find her offspring an hour later watching a lame boy eat the apple given him as a balm for his wounded feelings and gleefully informing the passerby that it was through his sacrifice that the other's enjoyment had been brought about.

After that she decided that it would be well to wait until Perkins should have arrived at more mature years before continuing her argument. Then one afternoon Jack arrived with Perkins under his arm, the boy clad only in his trousers. Between roars of laughter Jack described how Perkins had started in by giving his shoes to a barefooted bootblack and, enthused by the imaginary appreciation of the passerby, who had been attracted by the unusual sight, had gradually parted with his valiant piece by piece, until the youngest member of the family of Pfister from coming home in a barrel and a state of nature.

Mrs. Pfister decided that heroic measures were necessary at once and turned Perkins over to his father. The latter succeeded in convincing his son that popular applause was not an essential accompaniment to charity and that secrecy and good judgment were more to be praised than ostentation—all of which, being reduced to words of one and two syllables, was duly absorbed by Perkins.

That night at the table Perkins was permitted to come in for dessert, and he gravely listened to an argument between Jack and pretty Grace Tyson as

As it was too public a place to kiss, Jack kissed Perkins.

So the value of fresh air funds. It was a hobby with Miss Tyson, and Jack was jealous of the time she devoted to the fund because it interfered with their mutual pleasures.

Perkins drank in Miss Tyson's glowing description of the joys of the city child in the country and the willingness of the farmers to take them for a week. He decided that she must be right, though. He was unacquainted with fresh air funds. Usually he was sent to the country in May, but this year, some special club business requiring his mother's presence in town, their departure had been deferred.

Fresh air funds, he gathered, meant taking poor children to the country, where the farmers fed them fresh milk and let them walk on the grass. Such enterprises were greatly to be approved, since Uncle Jack condemned them. It had been through Uncle Jack he had had that awful hour with his father in the library. Of course he did not know that after dinner, in the same library, Grace handed back her ring, declaring that she could not marry a man so thoroughly selfish. Had he seen Jack Pfister pacing the floor of his room that evening even Perkins might have been sorry.

But since it was not considered necessary to inform Perkins of his uncle's attitude he continued in the belief that fresh air funds were most excellent things to be encouraged. They were very simple too. It would be easy to find a lot of poor children, and his Uncle Montgomery would finance the affair. It was to that maternal relative that he applied the following morning, dropping casually into his office. Five dollars was promptly forthcoming. Mr. Montgomery having no idea that the donation was for Perkins' own particular fund.

Arrived with the crisp note, Perkins handed up half a dozen small boys and invited them for a two weeks' trip to the country. These he marched to the railway station, and on his return announced that it was a fresh air fund the ticket seller fell into the error of supposing that it was a belated part of an excursion which had gone out that very morning from the real society. He provided Perkins with tickets to a town a short distance up the river. With the change Perkins purchased a generous luncheon of cough drops and peanuts, and thus equipped, the first personally conducted excursion of the Perkins fresh air fund made a start.

It was a ride of an hour and a half by slow train to their destination. The lunch disappeared, and the children were tired and quarrelsome. When Perkins, with blind confidence, announced himself and his party as a fresh air fund and demanded to be shown the farmers who delighted to take in children, the station agent, who had been tormented that morning trying to handle the real party, promptly sent for the police force of two constables. The party was taken into custody.

Huddled into one small room in the village lockup things were not well with Perkins. He had promised an outing, and instead they had been arrested. Boylike they took prompt and summary vengeance upon Perkins, who formed the lowest layer of a pyramid of six energetic youths just as Miss Tyson was ushered into the room. The constables soon separated the combatants, and bit by bit the story came out. Miss Tyson first laughed; then she cried, and then she kissed Perkins a very great many times, for Perkins favored his mother—and Jack Pfister.

Meanwhile there was anxiety in the Pfister home. Perkins had not come home for lunch. All of the relatives were telephoned, and a clerk was secured from Mr. Montgomery, who related the incident of the five dollar donation.

Jack Pfister's quick wit solved the rest of the problem. Perkins' freaks were a constant source of delight to him, and he saw in a moment how the argument of the night before had borne fruit. A telephone inquiry at the railroad station confirmed his theory, and barely had Miss Tyson made Perkins and his companions comfortable at the "fund" headquarters when Jack arrived on an express and made straight for the headquarters as the first place of inquiry.

Perkins did not know whether Jack was the more glad to see him, or Miss Tyson, but he was certain that Miss Tyson cried very much more over Jack than she had over him. At any rate his explanation that he was merely trying to carry out the paternal injunction not to make a display of his good works fell upon unheeding ears, for Jack was protesting that he had been a cad the night before, and Miss Tyson was vehemently declaring that he was a shamefully neglected and decidedly dear boy, which explanation being made she took back the ring.

Then because it was too public a place to kiss Jack she kissed Perkins even more than she had in the lockup, to that young man's great bewilderment, for it had been more than an hour since he had been found. Then he and Uncle Jack went back to town, where Perkins was made much of by the family.

"I think," he said late in the evening as his golden head drooped drowsily upon his mother's shoulder, "that when you don't tell more people find out than when you do." With which sage conclusion he went to bed, while Jack Pfister went to the library to write to Grace.

A Man.

"So," said the head of the firm, "you've decided to go into business for yourself, have you? Do you think you can make more money that way than we are paying you?"

"I'm afraid not," replied the employee.

"Then why do you want to leave here? Haven't we treated you well? You get a vacation, with pay, every summer. When you happen to be sick you're not docked, and I've always made it a rule to treat my men as well as I know how. If it isn't going to be to your financial advantage I can't see why you want to leave us."

"Well, you see, I was reading the other day that no man can serve two masters, and I've been thinking about it a good deal since and about made up my mind that it's so."

"Two masters? What do you mean? I guess I'm the only master around here, ain't I?"

"Yes—but."

"But what? If there is anything going on in this establishment that I don't know about I'd be very much obliged if you would tell me of it."

"It's not here. You see, I—got married about a year and a half ago, and—the honeymoon's over, and the lady has assumed control. She has found that the wife of a man on a salary doesn't seem to inspire much enthusiasm in society."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Cutting Off the End of a Cigar.

"No, indeed. I do not think much of the man who will cut the end of his cigar off with a knife, tip it off with a nipper or clip it off with a clipper," said the smoker, "though I suppose most persons will regard the matter as of small consequence. From my way of looking at it the habit of cutting the end off a cigar before beginning to smoke it is barbarous."

"So far as I know no question of etiquette is involved in the matter. You can cut, nip or clip or bite, just as you please, so far as the etiquette of the matter is concerned. It is not a matter of form. But there is a question of getting the best results, and that's the only point I have in mind. Bite the end of your cigar off, old man, if you want the best results, and I ought to know what I'm talking about, for I have smoked a long time and have tried all systems."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

PHASES OF SIEGE OF PORT ARTHUR

Gallant Deeds of Both the Russians and Japanese.

HEROIC EXPLOIT OF AN OFFICER.

How Bravery of a Japanese Commander Gained the Day at the Attack on a Fort—Terrible Effect of Russian Searchlight on Japanese Positions and Sappers.

Some of the incidents of the siege of Port Arthur by the Japanese army are herewith related:

The left flank of the Japanese position rested on the coast near Taku mountain. It extended in the form of a semicircle on the north side of the Shushui valley, over a crest of hills. The right flank was at Louisa bay.

The siege train and completed batteries occupied masked positions among the hills in semicircles on the right and left flanks. The reserve infantry was massed on the foothills of the farther side of the Fenghao range of mountains.

Along the front of the Japanese base was a large system of well constructed trenches from coast to coast. These were manned by infantry, while the main bodies of the Japanese troops were concealed behind spurs and passes throughout the range.

It was marvelous how the Japanese army was concealed from view even from the center of the Japanese position. The transport and ammunition columns worked from their base at the village of Tangchangling, six miles in the rear of the railroad.

The First Great Attack.

During the morning of Aug. 19 the siege guns opened a desultory fire to find the ranges, and an entire division of infantry advanced and assaulted the Russian redoubts at the foot of Rihlung mountain. The troops captured the trenches in front of the redoubts.

The operations began in earnest at daybreak on the 20th with a bombardment of the whole line of Russian forts. Battery after battery of Japanese artillery was unmasked, the Russians apparently being unable to locate them, for they replied spasmodically.

Under cover of the bombardment the Japanese infantry made a determined general advance against the Russian first trenches along the railroad in the center of the Shushui valley and also from Shushui village.

Six hundred yards south of the village the way into the city was protected by four advance half moon forts in the form of a hollow square open at the rear and connected by bomb proof trenches and having a twenty foot moat in front.

Japanese Valor Unavailing.

A desperate attempt was made by the Japanese during the afternoon to capture the strongest half moon fort. The infantry charged, cut the entanglements, crossed the moat with scaling ladders, stormed the fort and drove the Russians back. But the real strength of the defenders' position lay in the bomb proof trenches extending south of the other half moon forts. They were filled with troops and concealed machine guns which poured a deadly hail of bullets into the Japanese and forced them to retire. At about the same time the Russians recaptured the trenches in front of the redoubt in advance of Rihlung fort.

Took Part at Bayonet's Point.

On the right flank the Russian line was forced back. One Japanese regiment worked up the east slope and another regiment made its way up the west slope of One Hundred and Seventy-four yards hill under the concentrated fire of the Russian artillery and captured the fort at the point of the bayonet at noon. The fort and hill were strongly supported by bomb proof trenches, loopholed and with sand bag walls, and were armed with two four-inch guns, besides other guns.

During the evening a division on the Japanese left flank cut the entanglements on the slope east of Keekwan Fort hill, and before dawn on the 21st the central division of the Japanese gained the foot of East Pauling fort, called by the Japanese East Banjusan fort, and cut the entanglements, but were repulsed.

At daylight on Aug. 21 all the Japanese batteries of the center division concentrated their fire on the Banjusan and Keekwan forts, but despite the artillery support the Japanese were driven out of East Keekwan fort by an attack of a massed body of Russians from the Chinese wall. The assault threatened to result in an utter failure to secure a foothold on the fortified ridge, and General Nogi summoned the generals of the left and center divisions to consult with him concerning the operations.

Did Not Wait For Nogi's Order.

During his absence, at 11 in the morning, without special orders, several companies of a regiment of the center division emerged from their trenches at the foot of East Banjusan fort and in tens and twenties charged up the slope to the broken wall of the trench around the crest of the fortified hill under cover of a splendid shrapnel practice from their field batteries in the valley.

The Russians behind the wall and in the fort poured out a hail of rifle bullets, and machine and quick firing guns belched forth on the intrepid Japanese. Twice the latter were forced back till the slope was covered with bodies, but a third attempt was made, and a score of Japanese reached the broken wall.

The terrible life of the Russians, however, started their retirement.

Officer's Marvellous Gained Day.

Suddenly a Japanese officer, regardless of the danger, stood up, called out an order, planted his regimental flag on the wall and was immediately riddled with Russian bullets. The effect on the Japanese of this sacrifice was instantaneous. The retreating infantrymen stopped in their tracks, hesitated and then charged back, fought like demons, jumped over the wall, charged the Russians with bayonets and forced many of them up the glacis, over the ramparts and into the fort.

The fact that they had reached the corner wall on the dead ground enabled the Japanese to hold on, though the entire Russian air was concentrated on that point for six hours.

The Japanese were re-inforced from time to time by rushes made by their comrades up the deathway from the trenches, and they stubbornly held the corner wall and a small section of the Russian trenches till 5 o'clock, when two companies of another regiment worked through the trenches and attacked the West Banjusan fort, the magazine of which had been blown up by a shell a short time before.

Fort at Last Falls.

Taking advantage of a diversion of the Russian fire, the Japanese attacking the first fort forced the Russians back, captured the fort at the point of the bayonet and pursued the Russians along the connecting trenches to the Chinese wall. The West Banjusan fort was captured at 7 o'clock after a slight resistance, the Japanese being unable to occupy it, as the magazine was blown up, but they held the trench line around the crest.

In the afternoon three battalions of the Russian reserves were added to the center division, and during the night a regiment left the division and assaulted and captured part of South Keekwan fort, and a feint attack was made at the foot of Taku mountain in order to divert the Russians' attention from the massing of troops in the valley in front of the Banjusan forts. Four field guns and four machine guns were mounted in the East Banjusan fort and six field guns and four machine guns in the West Banjusan fort.

Wedge Had Been Placed.

The dawn of Aug. 22 developed a peculiar position. The assault of the previous afternoon had resulted in piercing the Russian fortified ridge east of Port Arthur in the form of a wedge, while elsewhere the entire line was still strongly held. The concentration of the Japanese reserves in the Shushui valley in front of the captured forts showed that it was the evident intention of the Japanese to use their foothold on the fortified ridge to segregate the eastern forts and carry the whole ridge by assault.

At daylight the Russians concentrated their shrapnel fire on the captured forts, and the Japanese south of Keekwan were ejected from their positions. The Banjusan forts were subjected to an awful fire, but the Japanese in possession of them continued making bomb proof trenches on the hills. There was a fierce bombardment all day. There was tremendous activity, the rear lines sending forward ammunition. The news came in whistles that a general assault would take place between midnight and 3 in the morning.

For hours after midnight the darkness and silence were broken by an occasional shell from the Japanese batteries, while the Russians burst many starlighters over Shushui village, where they made a feint at a sortie immediately after a furious fusillade in the rear of the captured forts.

Clever Russian Counter Attack.

Here the Russians, anticipating an assault, made a strong counter attack. The Japanese advance lines were driven from the forts and were furiously attacked by large bodies of Russians, who also worked down on either side of the captured Banjusan forts to the valley in an attempt to cut off the retreat of the Japanese from the two forts.

The Russians' move was cleverly planned and their artillery commanders were well informed, for they opened fire with shrapnel on the advance of the Japanese supports across the valley, using starlighters and searchlights with good effect in the counter attack on the Japanese forces.

A general assault then began, and for twenty minutes the whole Japanese line was engaged. The left division from the trenches in front of Keekwan forts charged the fortified hills.

Hill Death on Japanese.

Part of the advance had gained the crest and shouted "Banjusan!" when their triumph was cut short. Suddenly the two powerful searchlights of the east forts lighted up the Japanese lines, and Russian rifles and machine guns poured a deadly hail into the clearly visible ranks of the attacking troops. Despite the awful process of unequal annihilation, the Japanese stubbornly held the positions gained, and their machine guns quickly located and quieted the Russian quick fires. Finally the Japanese were slowly forced down the slope to the trenches below.

On the west flank the searchlights of Etse and Talyangow forts played along the Japanese trenches, preventing the movement of troops. The Japanese artillerymen concentrated their fire on the searchlights, shells continually blanketing the lights.

Russian Searchlight Base.

Suddenly the light of Etse fort disappeared, and the light of Talyangow fort followed. The Japanese infantry on the right flank advanced on the trenches close to the Russian lines, when the Etse light was flashed out in the faces of the advancing troops, and Russian machine guns, previously well placed, swept their fire along the lines, while rifles blazed with a continual rattle. As the Japanese machine guns came into action they were located by the Russian starlighters and were made more distinctly visible by the searchlights, but they silenced the Russian quick fires.

The skillful working of the Russian starlighters and searchlights was utterly unexpected and bewildering. They never failed to locate the Japanese lines, which offered splendid marks for the Russian rifles and machine guns, and rendered the Japanese machine guns of little use, as they were located and silenced by quick fires before they could do any execution. The Russians along the whole line fought in the blackest darkness and the Japanese with the most dazzling light in their faces.

No Quarter Asked or Given.

During the operations from Aug. 23 to Sept. 18 the Russians sortied and attacked working parties almost every night, while guns bombarded by day. As the Japanese trench line neared the entanglements on the foothills the sorties became more frequent and determined. Quarter was neither asked for nor given, the fiercest antagonism was displayed, and even stretcher bearers were killed. The cause of this was that the Russians alleged that their forts were bombarded while a messenger under a white flag was delivering the emperor's message on Aug. 16. The bitter feeling was augmented, and later all flags were unrecognized.

The pioneers and sappers suffered heavy casualties in cutting entanglements. After the failure of the regulation devices for removing wires the pioneers were sent to attach ropes to posts to which entanglements were attached, and troops in the trenches pulled upon the ropes, dragging posts and wires away. This worked satisfactorily until the Russians began the use of bracing wires. Then pioneers advanced and fell as though killed close to the entanglements and remained motionless until, unobserved, they could work along on their backs under the wires, which they cut with long shears. As a result of this expedient the Russians made certain that all were dead who fell near the entanglements.

Steel Shields For Pioneers.

The latest expedient was a steel shield covering the face and body, suspended from the shoulders of the pioneers, from behind which the cutters were used.

Dynamite bombs were used by the Russians against the Japanese trenches and advance works. For assaulting forts where it was impossible to throw bombs wooden mortars were made by the Japanese. These were carried by the soldiers, and with them bombs were thrown from fifty to a hundred yards. These were the most effective of the many devices tried by the Japanese.

In order to recover the wounded, when it was possible volunteers crawled from the trenches at night and worked along on their stomachs, pulling the wounded slowly to cover by the heels. Many of the wounded were not recovered.

The attack upon Two Hundred and Three Meter hill and the ridge immediately north of it, called Nahaokayama, was started at 5 in the evening of Sept. 19 by two regiments of the right division and one regiment of the Second reserves. The first regiment advanced against Nahaokayama from trenches close to the Russian lines. A Japanese company, in parties of tens and twenties, reached the dead ground on the northeast extremity of the ridge. In spite of the furious bombardment with which the Japanese supported the assault the Japanese infantry could not advance any farther and was compelled to spend the night on the dead ground close to the first Russian trench line.

Carnage on 203 Meter Hill.

In the meantime a second Japanese regiment advanced against the west slopes of Two Hundred and Three Meter hill, and a third regiment moved against the southwest slopes. The second regiment was unable to make much progress, but the third regiment reached the foot of the southwest slopes. During the night a party of sappers cleared away the Russian wire entanglements.

The Japanese bombardment began at dawn on Sept. 20, and all the morning the slopes of the fortified hill and the ridge were transformed into an inferno by the bursting of shells. At 11 o'clock a small party of the second regiment charged forward to gain the foot of the west slopes. The Russian batteries were evidently waiting for the Japanese, as a most wonderful shrapnel fire was opened on them.

Not a Japanese Escaped.

Every man seemed to fall. Though but at rifle range, the firing of shrapnel continued for ten minutes, after which all the Japanese were down, either wounded or killed. The artillery duel continued until 5:30 in the evening, when the first Japanese regiment, carrying its flags, advanced up the slopes of Nahaokayama to the dead ground which the single company had gained the night previous. The Russians had retired to their first line of trenches, and several companies of Japanese were extended along the slopes under cover of the brow of the ridge.

Charity Struggle on Hill.

With a rush they carried the trench line on the crest of the hill. The last rush of the Japanese was a splendid spectacle, ending with a bayonet encounter with the Russians on the full sky line. Stones, bayonets, swords and hand grenades were used by both sides. The utmost ferocity was displayed.

When the Japanese had carried the east half of the ridge the Russians retired to the west half. Before darkness the Japanese were in possession of the whole ridge, which they retained despite an awful shrapnel fire from their hill, Talyangow, the Tiger's Tail and the Liaot forts.

As announced in Tuesday's Advocate the High school mock election resulted in a victory for William R. Harper, the Liberal candidate, for President, over his opponent Charles W. Elliott, the Conservative candidate, by a vote of 170 to 125.

There is a bit of interesting history connected with the career of President Harper, of the Chicago University, that is no generally known. President Harper graduated from the Muskingum college at New Concord, O., a number of years ago. He was a jolly, good fellow, and took part in all the college sports, and moreover, was a member of the New Concord band. On one occasion the band, which had quite a reputation, was secured to furnish the music for a big celebration in Granville. Young Harper accompanied the band to Granville, and assisted in furnishing music all day long. He became very favorably impressed with the town and made an application for the faculty of Denison university for the position of teacher in the Academy. He secured the position, and so eminent did he prove that in a short time he was made principal of the academy which position he held for several years, rendering excellent service, and his rise to the Presidency of Chicago University one of the greatest institutions of learning in the country, was no surprise to his numerous friends, and there has always been a warm feeling for him in the hearts of Denison students.

AMUSEMENTS

WHEN THE BELL TOLLS.

This play, which will be produced at the Auditorium on Monday, Nov. 14, is a new departure in modern drama. Although full of exciting incidents and powerful dramatic situations, its popularity was not gained by the ordinary claptrap methods usually inseparable from this class of play. As a literary work it stands forward prominently, and the story is one of more than ordinary interest. The play is situated in Switzerland, and that romantic country lends itself particularly well in scenic effects. The plot is laid around the monastery of St. Bernard, with its picturesque monks and sagacious dogs, and a semi-religious halo adds much to the effectiveness of the romance. On the rise of the curtain the theatre goers find himself in a new atmosphere, hitherto untouched by the modern playwright, and the attention of the onlooker is held by the rapidly evolving situations that abound in the story. The company has been carefully selected and the play has been directed by the author, Travers-Vale, so a performance with every attention to detail can be relied upon. The scenic effects are particularly fine, one being the plateau of St. Bernard, with the historical monastery, where a duel is fought and the life-saving dogs rescue the wounded man. The dogs used in this production are full blooded St. Bernards, among them being the famous savior, Seger, a huge animal whose record is 23 lives. "When the Bell Tolls" promises to be worthy of a visit. Prices 25, 50 and 50 cents.

WANG NOVEMBER 18.

"Wang" in gorgeous revival form as seen for three months at the Shuberts' popular Lyric theatre, New York with De Wolf Hopper in the title role and an excellent supporting company, has repeated this season the sensation it made years ago, and is said to have surpassed the expectation of Hopper's most enthusiastic admirers in the matter of receipts. Mr. Hopper and his associates come here November 18, with all the pleasing stage effects that gave the revival a record run at the Lyric theatre, New York's most fashionable playhouse, where the tall comedian's most famous stage character type received serious approval in the hands of the dramatic and musical critic.
